

User Experience Design

Lesson 2 Summary

Take a moment to refresh your memory on what you know about information architecture. Can you answer the questions covered from the review chapters in this lesson?

- What does information architecture encompass?
- Why is information architecture important?
- What approach should be taken when designing a usable information architecture?

Great! What about expert reviews? What do you need to know about usability issues when you conduct these reviews? Can you answer the following questions from Chapter 10 of your text:

- Why are expert reviews important?
- When and how are expert reviews conducted?
- What is involved in analyzing and reporting your findings?

If so, then please continue to Lesson 3: Using Survey Results
